Dinas Vaitkaitis MD, Professor, Head of Disaster Medicine department and Head of Emergency Medicine Residency program at Lithuanian University of Health Sciences; President, Lithuanian Society for Emergency Medicine, Member of Emergency Medicine Section at European Medical Specialities Board (UEMS); Co-founder of HybridLab (Hybridlab.com).

My focus of scientific research - resuscitation training and education innovations in emergency medicine. For more than 10 years we are honored by prominent world leaders in medical education, like American Heart Association, European Resuscitation Council, American College of Surgeons and others to work as the international training organization. In the 21st century, when e-learning training platforms came into education market and Google, Tesla and other car makers are working on a self-driving automobile, we took the challenge to create the autonomous simulation training system for medicine.
